

Meet the must-have MicroPets

MicroPets-i, the tiny electronic pet sensations, are set to cause a stir this Christmas as the cutest critters ever are released.

As well as the cute cats Milk, Mocha and Sesame, loveable dogs Chocolate, Custard and Whip and the cuddly bears Pudding, Rosehip and Oleo, look out for nine new collectable personalities hitting the shelves this year.

Check out brand new Dalmatian dog Cookie and her puppy pals Chocomint and Cherry, meet adorable rabbits Cream Soda, Marshmallow and Strawberry Roll and sweet squirrels Apple Pie, Blueberry and Caramel – all on the MicroPets very own website, www.micropets-i.com.

MicroPets have been the “must have” pets over the last decade, selling over a million in the UK in 2002. Eight years on, they are back with even more artificial intelligence sensors meaning they can respond to your hand gestures by moving, talking and singing with just a tap of your finger. MicroPets can follow their special ball, avoid obstacles or sing their own unique song, all at your command.

When two of them go head to head, they will perform a duet, and after five reunions they will fall into fortune telling mode. If the chemistry is right, they could walk down the aisle singing the wedding march together, if not, you may hear a very different tune.

To know them is to love them. To enjoy their unleashed world log on to www.micropets-i.com.
